

The government mandates diversity in our classrooms, asking students to appreciate varied perspectives. To approve a unilateral voice in the media would be hypocritical and counter-productive to the balanced intellectual curiosity we strive for in our young people who are so heavily impacted by the media.